PREFACE

This notebook provides guidance on the Monitoring and Technical Assistance Review System (MTARS). The notebook is intended to be used as a guide by ADD staff who manage MTARS and by MTARS reviewers who conduct the site visit activities. The notebook is also designed to help Councils, P&As, and UCEDDs prepare for and participate in MTARS activities.

The MTARS notebook describes procedures for every stage of the MTARS process, from selecting grantee sites to review through follow-up activities after the monitoring visit. It is organized into the following seven sections:

- 1) Section 1: Overview of the DD Act and ADD
- 2) Section 2: Monitoring and Technical Assistance Review System
- 3) Section 3: MTARS Team
- 4) Section 4: Planning Activities
- 5) Section 5: Pre-Site Visit Activities
- 6) Section 6: MTARS Site Visit
- 7) Section 7: Post-Site Visit Activities

There are also a number of Tabs at the end of the notebook that provide additional information and resources related to MTARS. There is a list of acronyms in Tab A and the glossary in Tab B that will help with understanding words and concepts associated with MTARS that appear in the notebook.

SECTION 1

Overview of the DD Act and ADD

The DD Act

The Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act of 2000 (P.L. 106-402) (DD Act) contains three complimentary grant programs designed to assist individuals with developmental disabilities in reaching their maximum potential through increased independence, productivity, inclusion, and community integration. The three grant programs are:

- 1) State Councils on Developmental Disabilities (Councils)
- 2) Protection and Advocacy (P&As) Systems
- 3) University Centers for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities (UCEDDs)

The DD Act also includes the Projects of National Significance (PNS), which is a discretionary grant program. PNS grant projects do not fall under MTARS, but are reviewed through an alternate process.

Developmental Disabilities

There are approximately 4.5 million individuals with developmental disabilities in the United States. Developmental disabilities (DD) are severe, life-long disabilities attributable to mental and/or physical impairments, manifested before age 22. Developmental disabilities result in substantial limitations in three or more areas of major life activities:

- self-care
- receptive and expressive language
- learning
- mobility
- self-direction
- capacity for independent living
- economic self-sufficiency

Without appropriate services and supports, the choices open to people with developmental disabilities including where they live, work, and play are minimal. Limited options lead to people being isolated rather than fully integrated and included in the mainstream of society. Persons with developmental disabilities often require individually planned and coordinated services and supports. In order to live successfully in the community they need services and supports related to housing, employment, education, civil and human rights protection, health care, transportation, and recreation.

ADD

The Administration on Developmental Disabilities (ADD) is the Federal agency responsible for the implementation and administration of the DD Act. Organizationally, ADD is located within the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services and is part of the Department's Administration for Children and Families. ADD's mission is to improve and increase services to and assure that individuals with developmental disabilities have opportunities to make their own choices, contribute to society, have supports to live independently, and are free of abuse, neglect, financial and sexual exploitation, and violations of their legal and human rights.

State Councils on Developmental Disabilities (Councils)

Councils pursue systems change that promotes improved outcomes for individuals with developmental disabilities and their families. Councils pursue capacity building to develop and expand projects that successfully deliver services and supports. Councils also support advocacy activities that promote self-determination and inclusion in the community. Examples of Council activities include demonstration of new approaches, outreach, training, public education, and providing information to policy-makers.

Protection and Advocacy (P&As) Systems

P&As protect the legal and human rights of individuals with developmental disabilities. P&A strategies include legal, administrative, and other remedies (e.g., mediation and alternative dispute resolution); information and referral; investigation of incidents of abuse and neglect; and education of policy-makers.

University Centers for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities (UCEDDs)

UCEDDs are either components of a university system, or are public or not-for-profit entities associated with a university. UCEDDs are required to carry out four core functions:

- 1) Interdisciplinary pre-service preparation and continuing education
- 2) Community services, which includes services, training, and technical assistance

- 3) Research
- 4) Information dissemination

In terms of its organizational structure, the DD Act requires UCEDDs to be associated with a University. To meet this requirement of the Act, the majority of UCEDDs are “housed” at a University and situated within a major organizational unit of the University, such as a School of Medicine, School of Health Sciences, or a College of Education. Within this unit, the UCEDD functions as an independent entity carrying out the core functions. The UCEDD director reports to the leadership (such as a Dean or Provost) of the organizational unit.

Because they are generally independent entities within an organizational unit of the University, UCEDDs do not recruit and formally admit students to their program. Instead, students are recruited from other academic programs in the University, such as Pediatrics, Nursing, Education, Occupational Therapy, Dentistry, Nutrition, etc. Students will typically spend part of their academic training with the UCEDD.

SECTION 2

Monitoring and Technical Assistance Review System (MTARS)

Overview of the MTARS

The Administration on Developmental Disabilities (ADD) uses the Monitoring and Technical Assistance Review System (MTARS) to evaluate three of its grant programs:

- 1) State Developmental Disabilities Councils (Councils)
- 2) State Protection and Advocacy Systems (P&As)
- 3) University Centers for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities Education, Research and Services (UCEDDs).

Under the terms of the DD Act, ADD must conduct oversight to determine the extent to which grantees are helping individuals with developmental disabilities and their families have more opportunities to live, participate, and contribute to community life.

ADD established the MTARS to monitor individual grant programs, to address areas where grantees may benefit from technical assistance, and to identify innovative practices that may assist other grantees.

The title Monitoring and Technical Assistance Review System was carefully and thoughtfully chosen to show the close relationship between monitoring and technical assistance. MTARS is not strictly a monitoring process, nor is it strictly a technical assistance process, but a balance of the two.

MTARS benefits ADD, the States experiencing an MTARS, and all ADD grantees nationwide. ADD relies on MTARS as a significant component of its Federal stewardship and utilizes the information obtained from MTARS reviews to strengthen its position when justifying its programs to Federal oversight agencies. MTARS recipients learn from reviewers how to become even more effective in bettering the lives of individuals with developmental disabilities. All grantees gain through the sharing of innovative practices that are highlighted through the MTARS process.

In addition, the information collected through the monitoring process helps ADD comply with the requirements of two programs that seek to increase government accountability: the Government Performance and Results Act (GPRA) and the Program Assessment Rating Tool (PART). GPRA was enacted by Congress in 1993 to promote program performance and to provide greater accountability for results within Federal government by requiring agencies to develop measurable goals and to report results to Congress. PART was developed by the Office of Management and Budget in 2002 to complement GPRA by more closely aligning budget decisions with performance information. The PART assessment is published as an element of the President's budget and is used to supplement the budget analysis process so that budget decisions reflect a program's performance and effectiveness.

MTARS Monitoring Elements

Since 1999 MTARS has evolved from a primary focus on mere compliance with the law to one that is more dynamic and takes into consideration the following six elements:

- 1) Program compliance with the DD Act
- 2) Accountability and achievement of program goals
- 3) Collaboration with other DD programs within the State
- 4) Fiscal management
- 5) Technical assistance needs
- 6) Innovative practices

This dynamic model reflects the climate of accountability in Federal Government. In this climate, there is an increasing emphasis on justifying programs and budgets by showing their positive impact on people. It is no longer sufficient to only document program compliance by describing procedures or processes. Rather, programs must show how they are achieving goals of the DD Act thereby impacting people with disabilities. This Federal climate expands responsibilities for Federal stewardship. It is also an opportunity to bring more attention to the impact grantees have in the State.

In its role as federal steward, ADD has modified the MTARS process to include a number of elements that capture how programs working alone or in collaboration with the network partners are achieving important outcomes for people with developmental disabilities and their family members. The sections that follow describe in more detail the six different elements of the MTARS.

Program Compliance

ADD is the Federal steward that ensures its programs operate consistent with the Act and with regulations. The program compliance element of the MTARS asks the question: Are ADD programs doing what the law requires? The compliance element is concerned with process. Compliance is seen as the minimum at which ADD grantees must operate.

During an MTARS, grantees are asked to demonstrate compliance with the law by documenting how each meets requirements regarding such areas as collaboration, program administration, organization administration, evaluation and reports, and fiscal management.

Accountability and Achievement of Program Goals

While it is important to determine compliance with the Act, compliance in and of itself does not guarantee effectiveness in implementing the purpose of the Act. MTARS is also concerned with outcomes and impact. The accountability element of the MTARS asks the question: Are ADD programs making a difference in people's lives?

Grantees are asked to demonstrate accountability with program activities based on four principles:

- 1) Responsiveness of grantees to stakeholders, that is the extent to which the grantee seeks and utilizes input from stakeholders (e.g., individuals with developmental disabilities, family members, funding entities, contractors, service providers, policy makers, etc.).
- 2) Relationship between goal and objective setting and actual outcomes, that is the extent to which grantee's goals and objectives are stated in measurable terms and achieved through the implementation of relevant activities that achieve results.
- 3) Impact of ADD grantees on consumers and service systems, that is the kind of difference ADD grantees in a State have made on people and service systems.
- 4) Validation of data, that is ensuring that the data collected by a grantee gives a full and accurate picture of what the grantee is doing.

Program Collaboration

This element of the MTARS asks the question: Is the DD Network partnering in a strategic way to make a difference in people's lives? This element is concerned with outcomes and impact from a collaborative perspective. Grantees are asked to provide evidence of collaboration with programs in the DD network and by documenting the number of projects having substantive joint efforts among DD programs in the State, the extent of collaboration within a project, the areas addressed by these joint efforts, and the impact of collaboration on project outcomes. MTARS reviewers pay particular attention to grantees' participation in each other's planning process to identify barriers and to pursue collaborative efforts to overcome those barriers.

Fiscal Management

This element of the MTARS asks the question: Are ADD programs adhering to fiscal management requirements? The fiscal management element is concerned with monetary tracking and accountability. Grantees are asked to demonstrate fiscal management through the appropriate oversight, monitoring, accounting, and use of ADD funds. To this end, they are asked to document fiscal responsibility in the use of federal funds.

Technical Assistance

This element of the MTARS asks the question: What technical assistance will bring ADD Programs into compliance and/or enhance program performance? The technical assistance element is concerned with process and outcomes/impact.

Technical assistance to ADD grantees is not limited to the needs that arise during an MTARS review. ADD, through its technical assistance contracts and other resources, is ready to help grantees at any time to remedy issues and address areas where help is needed to yield better outcomes.

Because MTARS is comprehensive in scope, involves follow-up activities, and has many opportunities for dialogue with ADD staff, peers, and consumers, it is advantageous for grantees to disclose areas where they would like to improve so that technical assistance resources can be activated early in the MTARS process.

Program Innovation

This element of the MTARS asks the question: What innovative practices will benefit other ADD programs? It is concerned with program improvement, expansion, and awareness. The MTARS is one vehicle ADD uses to identify innovative practices that can be added to the strategies used by other grantees to do an even better job. ADD is proud of all the good work that grantees do each day to better the lives of individuals with developmental disabilities and seeks innovative practices to recognize, promote, and disseminate throughout the nation.

Self-assessment Checklists

Given the variety of elements related to MTARS, ADD has created a set of self-assessment checklists to streamline the review process. The self-assessment checklists are comprised of four parts:

- 1) Program Compliance
- 2) Program Operations and Practices
- 3) Innovative Practices
- 4) Fiscal

In addition, there is a checklist for the DD Council Chairperson.

The self-assessment checklists capture each element of the MTARS process (e.g., compliance, accountability, collaboration, fiscal management, technical assistance, and innovative practices).

The checklists for each program appear in the back of this notebook. The DD Council Self-assessment checklists appear in Tab C, the P&A Self-assessment checklists appear in Tab D and the UCEDD Self-assessment checklists appear in Tab E.

ADD works with grantees to complete and fully utilize the checklists. This process is described in more detail in Section 5 of the notebook.

MTARS Activities and Phases

In general, the MTARS spans the Federal fiscal year (October 1 – September 30). The process is divided into four phases:

- 1) Planning
- 2) Pre-site visit
- 3) Site visit
- 4) Post-site visit

ADD utilizes the planning phase to organize and manage the MTARS activities for the year. It includes tasks such as identifying the States to be reviewed, preparing a yearly budget, establishing review teams, making team assignments, and training individuals who serve as reviewers.

The pre-site visit phase includes activities such as scheduling the visit, completing checklists, conducting the site visit and, if possible, the public forum via videoconference, reviewing materials, discussing with grantees findings from the review of materials, and preparing an agenda for the site visit.

The site visit activities include a public forum, if not conducted during the pre-site visit phase, interviews of grantee staff, interviews of individuals associated with grantee activities, observation of grantee activities, provision of technical assistance, and an exit meeting. Site visits are labor-intensive and generally take four days to complete.

The post-site visit phase includes report writing, follow-up on technical assistance delivery and program improvements, and the dissemination of innovative practices.

SECTION 3

MTARS Team

MTARS Team Structure

Generally, the MTARS Team is comprised of the following people:

- ✓ ADD Central Office Program Specialists
- ✓ Council Peer Reviewer
- ✓ P&A Peer Reviewer
- ✓ UCEDD Peer Reviewer
- ✓ Individuals with developmental disabilities/family members
- ✓ Fiscal Reviewer

The MTARS Team is managed by the Team Coordinator, who is an ADD Staff person.

The MTARS Team has an on-site coordinator, who is an ADD Staff person.

ADD divides the larger MTARS Team into three Program Teams. The use of program teams makes it possible for reviewers to focus on one program and accomplish more during the site visit. The Program Teams are:

- 1) DD Council Program Team
- 2) P&A Program Team
- 3) UCEDD Program Team

In cases where there are two or more UCEDDs in the State, ADD will have a team for each UCEDD.

Each of the Program Teams consists of a minimum of three people, including a/an:

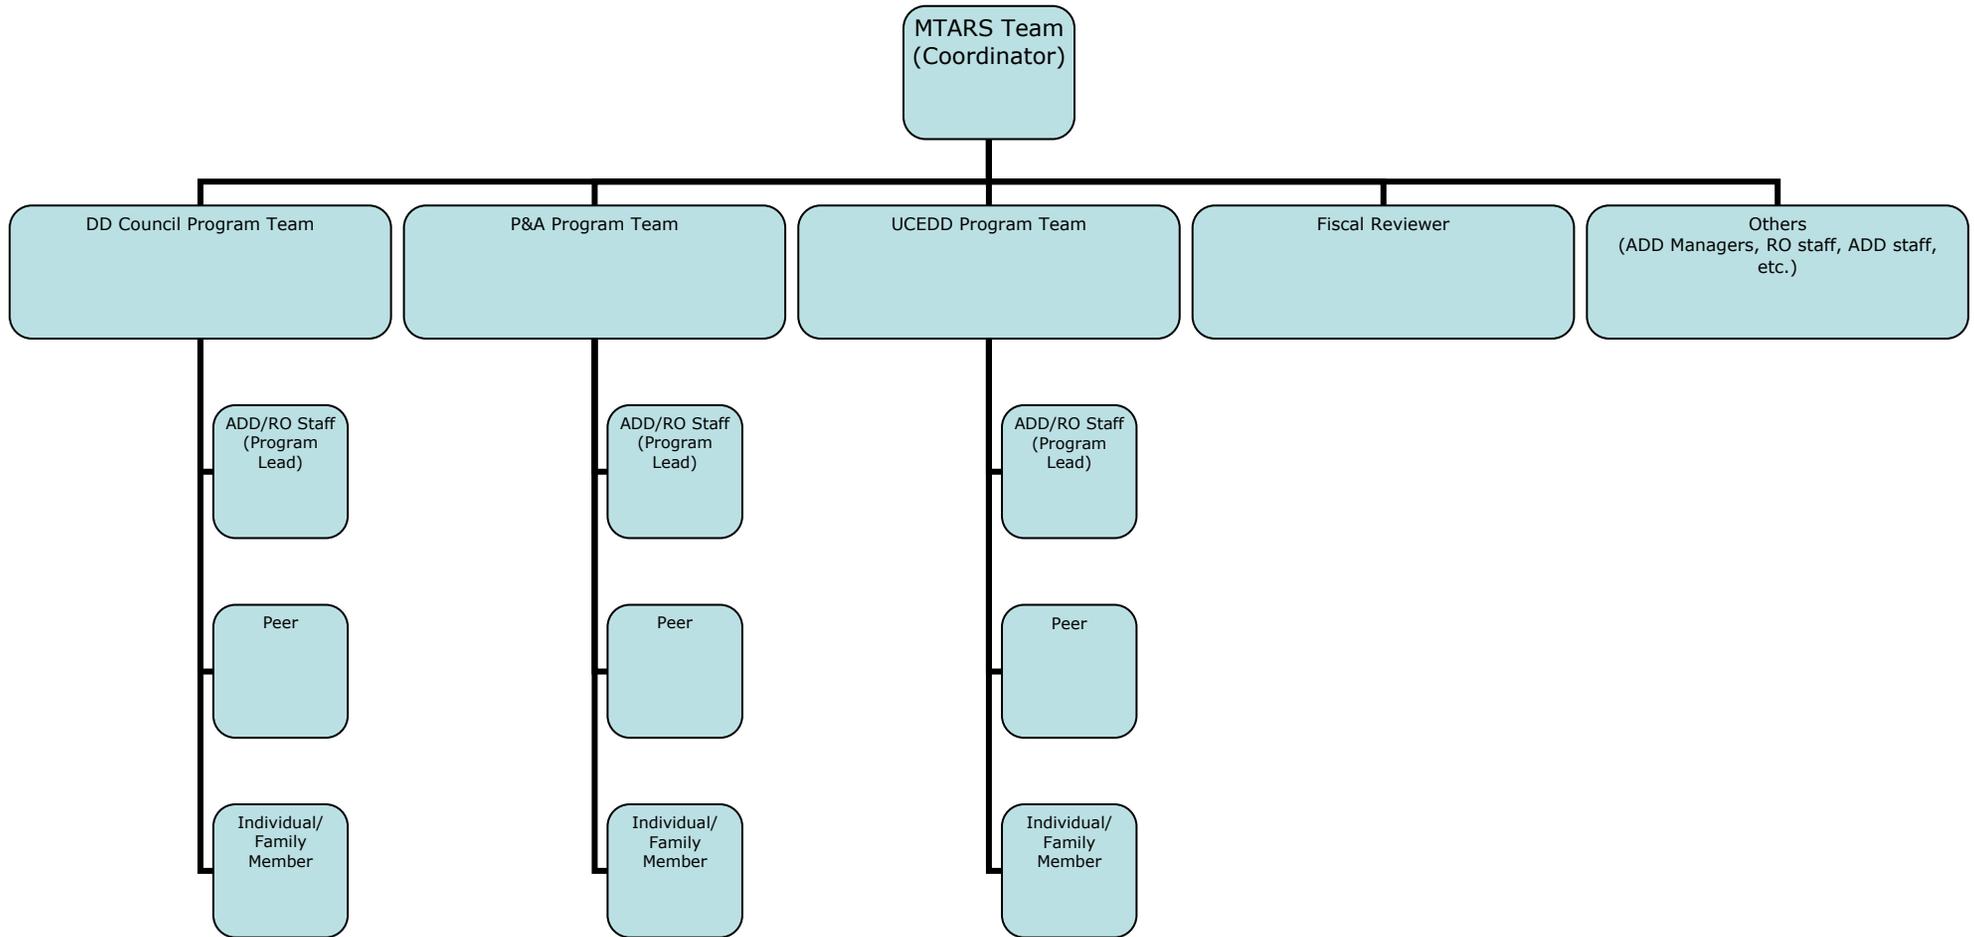

- 1) ADD staff person
- 2) Director of a grant program in another State
- 3) A person with a direct or indirect experience with developmental disabilities

The ADD Staff person serves as the Program Lead for the team.

The fiscal reviewer functions independently of the Program Teams. They schedule with the grantees a time during the site visit week to visit the program to conduct the fiscal review. They meet with staff responsible for fiscal-related matters. They typically spend one day at each program.

The Review Team members presented above is the norm. However, there may be instances when additional people accompany the team. For example, an ADD manager may participate in MTARS. There may be additional ADD and/or Regional Office staff who participates in the review as trainees or co-leads. Individuals with developmental disabilities may request to bring a personal support person on the site visit. The personal support person is not an active participant. See the Figure on the next page for an overview of the MTARS team configuration.

MTARS Team Configuration

Selection of Non-federal Team Members

Non-federal team members are selected by ADD. Factors that may be considered when selecting a non-federal team member include:

- ✓ Currently working with State as part of an ADD technical assistance contract
- ✓ From a State with similar demographics
- ✓ From a State of similar size and geography
- ✓ From a grant program of similar size and with a similar area of emphasis
- ✓ Experience and expertise in area where technical assistance has been requested

Some non-federal team members may be selected from a pool of individuals who have participated in a prior review. Other reviewers may be individuals who are newly trained in the MTARS process and participate as a reviewer for the first time.

Team Member Responsibilities

Each member of the MTARS team has specific responsibilities.

There is a Team Coordinator is responsible for the following:

- ✓ Overall coordination of the review including joint aspects of the site visit planning, scheduling, and report writing
- ✓ Providing oversight in the planning for the public forum
- ✓ Coordinating logistics, including hotel accommodations
- ✓ Providing (through the ADD Project Officer) peer, consumer and assistant names and itinerary information to the ADD Logistics Contractor
- ✓ Developing and disseminating the overall site visit schedule in coordination with the grantees and Program Leads
- ✓ Coordinating the initial conference call with the grantees
- ✓ Coordinating the videoconference for the State Overview and DD Network collaboration presentations
- ✓ Ensuring that on-site coordinator has necessary logistical information for site visit, including the master schedule and conference call numbers
- ✓ Participating via conference call in team meeting to discuss DD Network collaboration
- ✓ Participating via conference call in Exit Meeting
- ✓ Writing Parts 1 and 2 of the report

- ✓ Coordinating the completion of the final report

The On-site Coordinator is responsible for the following:

- ✓ Facilitating the videoconference for the State Overview and DD Network collaboration presentations
- ✓ Leading the public forum
- ✓ Facilitating any full team meetings that occur on-site
- ✓ Leading the Exit Meeting and presenting collaboration report at the Exit Meeting
- ✓ Providing the team coordinator with notes and report from the Exit Meeting on collaboration
- ✓ Assisting the team coordinator as needed in writing Part 2 of the report on collaboration

The On-site Coordinator also serves as the Program Lead for one of the program teams.

The Program Lead is responsible for the following:

- ✓ Determining the MTARS team composition
- ✓ Selecting and recruiting appropriate peer and consumer reviewers
- ✓ Determining the agenda for respective program review
- ✓ Making individual team member assignments
- ✓ Making sure team members have information about the site visit
- ✓ Identifying areas/issues of focus during the site visit
- ✓ Drafting the report section pertaining to their respective program
- ✓ Arranging technical assistance
- ✓ Reporting all issues to the Team Coordinator

The Regional Office Reviewer may be involved with the following:

- ✓ Performing a review of grantees' fiscal management
- ✓ Participating in training, teleconferences, and the site visit
- ✓ Providing notes to Program Lead for use in drafting report

The other two members of the team (the director and the person with a direct or indirect experience with developmental disabilities) is assigned responsibility for:

- ✓ Functioning as an agent of the Federal government with a monitoring and oversight responsibility
- ✓ Reviewing grantee self-assessment checklists and related materials

- ✓ Participating in discussions with program team members about the grantee self-assessment checklists to identify areas of inquiry for the site visit
- ✓ Providing technical assistance while on site
- ✓ Sharing experience and expertise that grantee may find useful for addressing specific administration, planning, design, or other operational issues
- ✓ Providing insight and suggestions regarding the grantee facility, level of services, and relationship with individual with developmental disabilities and family members
- ✓ Serving as a consultant to the team and grantees on disability issues
- ✓ Participating in training, videoconferences, teleconferences, the site visit, and report writing
- ✓ Sharing responsibilities for conducting interviews
- ✓ Providing notes to Program Lead for use in drafting report

With these responsibilities comes a time commitment associated with the MTARS. Reviewers are expected to participate in up to one day of training if they have not participated in an MTARS, the Entrance Meeting and Public Forum videoconference, at least one team meeting to review grantee materials, at least one conference call with the grantee in preparation for the site visit, and in a four day site visit. In addition, reviewers are expected to read the materials relevant to their specific assignment. After the site visit, reviewers contribute to and comment on the draft report. Non-federal reviewers are compensated for time associated with the training and on-site visit.

Standards of Conduct

MTARS team members have access to a great deal of sensitive information about the ADD programs. All information and materials received and reviewed should be considered confidential. Team members should only discuss information from the review with other MTARS team members and not grantees being reviewed and representatives from the membership associations. See Tab F tips for effective team work and standards of conduct for team members.

SECTION 4

Planning Activities

The Planning Phase

The MTARS planning generally begins the first quarter (October 1 – December 31) of each Federal fiscal year. The purpose of the planning phase is to organize and manage the MTARS activities for the year. It includes the following tasks:

- ✓ Identifying the States to be reviewed
- ✓ Preparing a yearly budget
- ✓ Establishing review teams
- ✓ Making team assignments
- ✓ Planning for the training of reviewers

Selecting States to Review

Staff from ADD Central Office recommend States for review during the fiscal year. States most likely to be recommended and selected for review are those with:

- ✓ Requests for technical assistance
- ✓ Significant program deficiencies
- ✓ Problems implementing Federal requirements
- ✓ Significant consumer complaints
- ✓ Longest time since last review

The number of States reviewed in a year depends in part on the availability of Federal funds to cover travel expenses for the on-site visit. ADD attempts to conduct an MTARS of a State approximately every seven years. The table below shows the States reviewed over the past several years.

States Reviewed

YEAR	STATES REVIEWED
1998	Oregon and New Jersey
1999	Maine
2000	Florida
2001	Connecticut, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Ohio, Oklahoma, Missouri, Montana, and Idaho
2002	Vermont, New York, District of Columbia, Mississippi, Michigan, Louisiana, Iowa, Wyoming, Minnesota, and Washington
2003	Massachusetts, Texas, Kansas, and Nebraska
2004	Virginia, Alabama, Wisconsin, Arkansas, Colorado, and Utah
2005	New Hampshire, Delaware, Illinois, New Mexico, and South Dakota
2006	California and Maryland
2007	Pennsylvania and Georgia
2008	Arizona and Indiana
2009	North Dakota, Rhode Island, and Nevada

Planning Activities

ADD engages in a number of planning activities to prepare for the MTARS. First, ADD must identify how much money can be spent on MTARS. A major factor is the budget that Congress and the President approve for the fiscal year (October 1 to September 30). ADD also identifies the MTARS team members for different program teams and contacts potential reviewers to invite them to participate. Another aspect of the planning activities is notifying programs that they will be reviewed and identifying a date for the review.

Training MTARS Reviewers

ADD conducts training for all new members of a Review Team. The training is scheduled for up to one day. The training agenda covers the major provisions of the DD Act, the activities associated with each phase of MTARS, and each element of MTARS monitoring including collaboration, compliance, accountability, fiscal management, technical assistance, and innovative practices.

The training may be held in the Washington, D.C. metro area or via Webinar. The ADD Logistics Contractor will make travel arrangements and pay for travel expenses for all non-federal reviewers and for any personal support personnel that travel to the Washington, D.C. metropolitan area for training.

SECTION 5

Pre-Site Visit Activities

Site Visit Notification

A formal notification of the MTARS visit is sent to each grantee from the Commissioner of ADD. The confirmation letter describes the purpose of the MTARS and the site visit. It also identifies the dates for the site visit, the due date for the self-assessment checklists, and the date for the Joint Entrance videoconference. Copies of the notification are distributed to the following:

- Council Executive Director
- P&A Executive Director
- UCEDD Director
- ADD Staff on the Review Team

Following the notification, the MTARS Team Coordinator contacts the following individuals to begin coordinating activities that will take place during the visit:

- Council Executive Director
- P&A Executive Director
- UCEDD Director

The MTARS Team Coordinator will schedule a conference call with all the grantees to provide an overview of the MTARS process and discuss logistical issues. See Tab G for a sample conference call agenda.

ADD Staff Assignments and Preparations

Once States have been identified for the MTARS, ADD makes staff assignments for conducting the MTARS. ADD staff is assigned to the MTARS Team Coordinator, On-site coordinator, and Program Lead roles. Several factors are taken into consideration when making staff assignments, including programmatic concerns, grant assignments, and workload. ADD may assign additional staff to the MTARS team as co-leads or trainees.

The MTARS Team Coordinator and Program Leads engage in a variety of activities to prepare for and conduct the MTARS. The MTARS Team Coordinator ensures that overall logistics are managed and communicates across the team and with the grantees. The MTARS

Team Coordinator also has responsibility for overseeing the writing of the report. See Tab I for the MTARS Team Coordinator's checklist, which outlines all the steps to be carried out in the different phases of the MTARS.

The Program Team Lead works with the grantee and team members to carry out all aspects of the review process, including the analysis of the self-assessment checklists, the site visit activities, and report writing. See Tab J for the Program Lead Checklist, which outlines all the steps to be carried out in the different phases of the MTARS.

Recruitment of MTARS Team Members

Once the State has been notified about the MTARS, ADD begins to recruit MTARS team members. In doing so, Program Team leads contact the grantee to identify technical assistance needs. ADD uses this information to determine the expertise needed on the team. In addition, ADD takes into consideration other factors, including the geographic location of the State, the size of the program, the organizational structure of the program, and allotment.

Using this information, ADD develops a list of potential MTARS reviewers, which is approved by ADD administration. Once approved, the Program Team lead begins contacting the proposed reviewers to determine their availability and interest in participating in the MTARS.

Once the Program Team members are established, the Program Team lead sends the contact information for team members to the MTARS team coordinator. The MTARS team coordinator develops a contact sheet for all the team members and provides copies to the grantees and MTARS team members (see Tab K for sample contact sheet).

Site Visit Preparation

In addition to the work that ADD and the MTARS team members do to prepare for the site visit, the grantee have an important role in planning and preparing for the site. Grantees have numerous responsibilities in preparing for the MTARS, including:

- Collaborating with the network partners to plan for several joint activities;
- Working with MTARS team members to help with logistics for the on-site aspects of the review; and
- Completing the self-assessment checklist and other materials for the review.

There is a checklist in Tab L to help grantees manage all aspects of the site visit preparations.

Grantee Self-Assessment

A central element of the MTARS is completion of the self-assessment checklists by the grantees (see Tab C for the DD Council checklists, Tab D for the P&A checklists, and Tab E for the UCEDD checklists). The self-assessment checklists are divided into four checklists related to the MTARS:

- 1) Program Compliance
- 2) Program Operations and Practices
- 3) Innovative Practice
- 4) Fiscal

In addition, there is a checklist for the DD Council Chairperson.

By completing the self-assessment checklists, the grantee is able to identify:

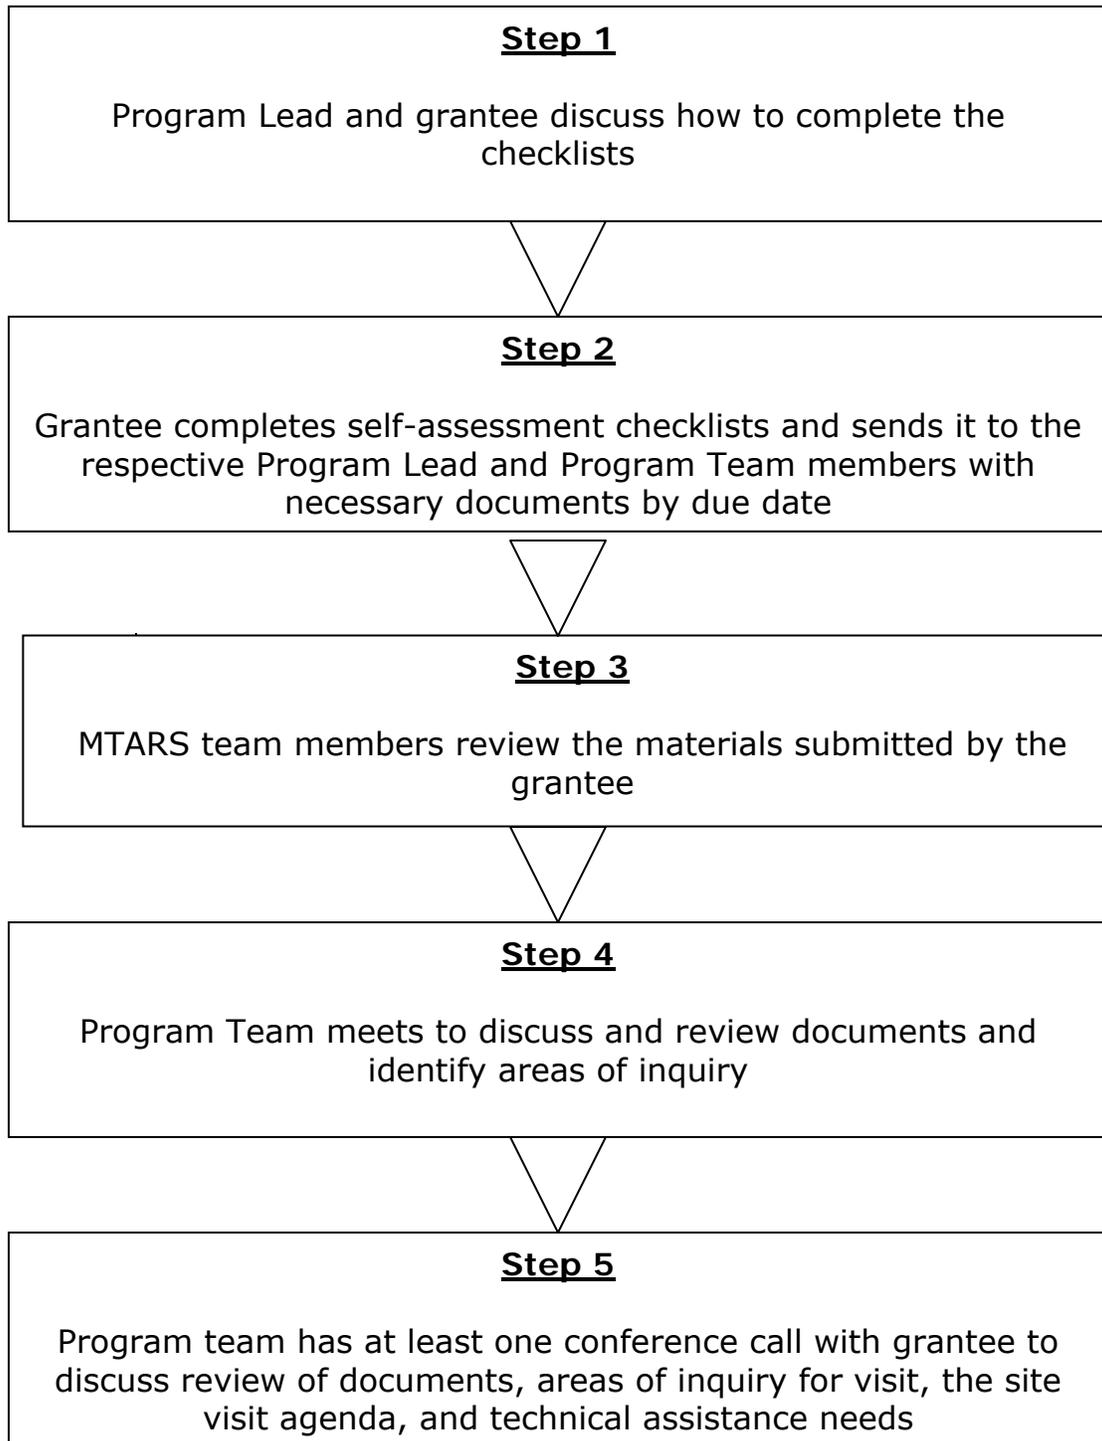

- ✓ Ways in which they are complying with the law
- ✓ Areas of collaboration
- ✓ Technical assistance needs
- ✓ Strengths and innovations of the programs

The use of the checklists streamlines communication between the grantee and Program Team. It is a means for determining what should be highlighted during the site visit. It also identifies early on areas for technical assistance that can be discussed while on-site or afterwards. Similarly, a grantee's early identification of an innovative practice enables the grantee to prepare presentations and assemble documentation that describe the practice and show its results. Determining in advance what should be highlighted enables the grantee to ensure that the appropriate documentation and staff are available to provide the information the grantee wishes to convey.

Process for Completing the Self-Assessment Checklists

The figure below shows an outline of the process for completing the self assessment checklists.

Process for Completing the Self Assessment Checklists

Step 1: Program Lead and Grantee discuss how to complete the checklists

ADD provides grantees with copies of the self-assessment checklists. Time is arranged to discuss the checklists with the grantees and clarify how they are to be completed.

Step 2: Grantee Completes Checklists and Sends to Program Team

It is the responsibility of the grantee to complete the checklists. The grantees will have electronic copies of the checklists so they can make comments to the team members regarding their activities directly on the form. Grantees should provide supplemental information, such as reports, publications, personal testimonies, meeting minutes, organizational charts, contracts, etc. to support information provided in the checklists. When providing supplemental information, grantees should organize the materials in a notebook, on a CD ROM, or another electronic format. Grantees are encouraged to provide program team members copies of the checklists and related documents in electronic formats. Copies of all materials should be sent to all team members.

Please note that grantees do not need to submit to ADD staff copies of their PPRs/Annual Reports, State Plans, Statements of Goals and Priorities, or 5-Year Applications. ADD has copies of these in the office and does not need additional ones. However, the grantee should send copies of these documents to team members.

Step 3: MTARS team members review the materials submitted by the grantee

Once Program Team members have received the checklists and materials, they are responsible for reviewing them. Each team member will read all documents and make notes regarding their findings. They will pay particular attention to areas of compliance, items for improvement, and innovations. They will also identify items they would like to know more about.

Step 4: Program Team Meets to Discuss Checklists

After the Program Team reviews all materials, they will meet either in person or through teleconference to discuss their findings. The Program Team will use the checklists as the primary guide for their discussion. During the call, the Program Team will identify the areas of inquiry for the grantee. These areas of inquiry may include the following:

- 1) Collaboration
- 2) Organizational Administration
- 3) Council/Board/Consumer Advisory Committee Membership
- 4) Program Administration
- 5) Evaluation and Reporting
- 6) Designated State Agency
- 7) Compliance Issues
- 8) Potential Areas for Technical Assistance
- 9) Innovative Practices

The ADD Program Lead summarizes the areas of inquiry and shares that with the grantee.

Step 5: Grantee and Program Team Teleconference

The Program Team and grantee teleconference to discuss the review of the checklists and the areas of inquiry. The grantee may be able to provide additional information that clarifies the questions of Program Team members. It is also an opportunity for the Program Team and grantee to discuss areas where there may be concerns regarding program compliance and any technical assistance needs. The Program Team and grantee can also discuss the strengths and innovations of the program.

This teleconference is also an opportunity to discuss the site visit agenda. Based on discussions of the areas of inquiry, the Program Team and grantee can develop a draft schedule for the site visit. From there, the grantee can work to finalize the agenda.

Fiscal Review Guidance

In addition to the programmatic reviews, the grantee will also under a fiscal review to ensure that all Federal grantees, including the DD Network grantees, meet specific fiscal reporting requirements (e.g., submittals of financial reports and annual independent audits). Federal Fiscal Specialists from the Regional Office will participate on the MTARS teams to conduct the fiscal reviews of the DD Councils, P&As and the UCEDDs during each MTARS site visit.

The Fiscal Review Checklists are included with the self-assessment checklists that can be found in Tab C for the DD Council, Tab D for the P&A, and Tab E for the UCEDD. The grantees will complete the fiscal checklists and return to the MTARS Team Coordinator prior to the MTARS site visit.

The MTARS team requests that the grantees' fiscal staff be available during the site visit and have the following fiscal source documents available and ready for review onsite:

- Accounting Policies and Procedures manual
- 269's – last three years
- Audits – last three years
- Inventory Records
- Vouchers - one year
- Credit Cards statements – one year
- Cash Disbursements – one year
- Staff flow Chart
- Program Income
- Indirect Cost Agreement and Cost Allocation Plan
- P&A Plan for Cost Allocation among federal funding streams, including records and methodology

The Fiscal Specialist, in consultation with the MTARS Team Coordinator and the grantee Executive Director and Fiscal staff, will schedule the fiscal review of each of the DD programs. The Federal Fiscal Specialist will conduct the fiscal review of the grantees and is expected, if possible, to participate in MTARS team meetings to provide and exchange information.

State of the State and DD Network Collaboration Videoconference

The State of the State and DD Network Collaboration videoconference occurs at least one month before the site visit. The Council, P&A, and UCEDDs officials and the entire Review Team participate in this meeting, to the extent possible, via videoconference. The non-federal MTARS team members will be given the option of traveling to Washington, DC to participate in the videoconference. Those who choose not to travel to Washington, DC for the videoconference may participate from their own site in the videoconference or they may participate using other technologies, such as teleconference and webinar.

ADD staff begins the meeting by giving an overview of the MTARS process, purpose of the visit, and team member roles and responsibilities.

The grantees coordinate the remainder of the videoconference agenda providing information about the State, including the State's:

- ✓ Politics
- ✓ Economics

- ✓ Geography
- ✓ demographics (including cultural and unserved/underserved)
- ✓ service delivery system
- ✓ program emphasis and other information that will help the review team under State-related issues during the site visit
- ✓ State waivers
- ✓ Institutional services, if any
- ✓ Governor's plan, if any, for disability services
- ✓ Olmstead
- ✓ legislative initiatives
- ✓ Other pertinent issues/challenges

The videoconference also includes brief overviews of the Council, P&A, and UCEDDs in order to gain a picture of how the programs operate in the State.

The videoconference should also include a presentation of the collaborative activities of the Network. Such activities can include those that address critical barriers or issues in the State and that promote systems change, capacity building, and advocacy. Each ADD grantee may want to explain its specific contribution to the joint activities. Grantees should express contributions in terms of program activity (e.g., Council-demonstration project, policy, self-advocacy; P&A-legal advocacy; UCEDD-training, research, community service, and information dissemination). Discussions should cover the successes/impact of the collaboration; what has changed as a result of the collaboration; strength and weaknesses; and what is working and what is not.

This meeting will take place via videoconference with an agenda developed by the Council, P&A and UCEDD(s). In States where there is more than one UCEDD, all Centers should participate in the meeting. The videoconference should last approximately 4 – 6 hours depending on the content. Please see Tab L for a sample videoconference agenda. The grantees should develop a draft agenda to share with the Team Coordinator for feedback.

Public Forum Preparation

As part of the pre-site visit activities, grantees schedule a cross-program public forum which occurs on the first day of the site visit.

A public forum is an important part of the monitoring. It allows the team to gather comments from the public about the activities of the Council, P & A, and UCEDD(s). The purpose is to gather information on their experiences with these programs, how the programs have changed their lives, and how the programs can improve. It is important to convey that the public forum is not the time to voice concerns or complaints about the State service delivery system, such as Medicaid or special education, since ADD does not have oversight of such programs

Participants at the public forum are given 3 minutes to share their comments. Accommodations to the three minute time limit will be provided to persons needing additional time.

It is recommended that grantees have people sign up in advance to speak at the public forum. In doing so, the public forum runs smoothly and people can anticipate when to arrive based on the schedule. This also indicates whether there will be enough time for everyone to speak. It is also recommended that the grantees schedule a block of time, such as the last half hour of the scheduled time, for people who will be calling in to provide their remarks.

The grantees are responsible for arranging audio and visual technology at any public meeting site as well as teleconferencing hook-ups and e-mail for individuals. Grantee must also arrange for a note-taker to be on-site for the main site and each remote sites who can record the comments from the public and a time keeper who will ensure that comments are limited to 3 minutes.

Details about the opportunity for public comment along with an invitation to the general public to participate should be published in a variety of accessible formats including newspapers, newsletters, etc. The notice must include the purpose, date, time, and location, along with phone numbers and addresses of the ADD Regional Office. A sample notice of a public forum appears in Tab M. This document must be approved by the Team Coordinator.

Site Visit Agenda

The grantee will be developing the site visit agenda based on input from the Program Team. The agenda should include all activities (e.g., interviews, document reviews, case reviews, peer to peer discussions, team meetings, technical assistance discussions) needed to make a determination about grantee performance and fulfill all the expectations of an MTARS. Timeframes for each activity should be realistic so all that is needed is accomplished. A sample of a detailed, on-site meeting schedule appears in Tab N.

Accessibility

The grantees must ensure that all aspects of the MTARS are accessible to individuals with developmental disabilities. This includes the method or facility used for the public forum and all other meetings and events that occur in public and grantee sites. Any instances in which there are barriers preventing the full participation of individuals with developmental disabilities in any MTARS event will be noted in the final report.

Other Site Visit Preparations

Grantees should prepare for the site-visit by making certain adequate facilities are available for the review activities. If the grantee does not have adequate meeting space, they should inform ADD so that alternative arrangements can be made that satisfies all needs. The grantee should inform staff that participate in the review of the purpose of the visit, their role, when they can expect members of the review team to arrive, and the time and place they are scheduled to appear for a meeting or interview.

SECTION 6

MTARS Site Visit

Purpose of the Site Visit

The primary purpose of the site visit is to:

- ✓ gather information that answers the gaps and issues identified during the pre-visit phase
- ✓ document the impact grantee's efforts have on people, innovative practices
- ✓ further explore potential compliance and other issues not identified or fully understood prior to the visit
- ✓ respond to technical assistance needs

Site visits enable ADD to review the Council, P&A, and UCEDD(s) in each State both as separate entities and as a network. The information obtained during the site visits helps ADD:

- ✓ verify grantee compliance
- ✓ gauge overall effectiveness and consumer satisfaction
- ✓ assess grantee fiscal management
- ✓ identify and provide technical assistance
- ✓ promote innovative practices

The visit gives the Review Team many opportunities to gather information directly from Councils, P&A's, and UCEDDs as well as from their partners and the public. Meetings, interviews, document reviews, presentations, and observations are the main components of the information-gathering process. Presentations about grantee activities and accomplishments, along with first-hand observation of grantee projects provide significant insight about the philosophy, values, direction, and goals of the grantee.

Meetings

The site visit includes the following meetings:

- ✓ Program Team Meetings
- ✓ MTARS Team Meetings
- ✓ Joint Exit Meeting

Details on each meeting follow.

Program Team Meetings

Program Team meetings are held, as needed, in the late afternoon or evening to discuss the day's interviews, presentations, strengths, weaknesses, technical assistance needs, and recommendations. Each team member participates in this process so that all perspectives are included. Program Teams must meet the last afternoon of the site visit to develop the findings from the MTARS that will be included in the final report and shared at the Exit Meeting.

MTARS Team Meetings

MTARS Review Team meetings are held, as needed. There may be a meeting planned for the evening before the site visit begins so MTARS team members have an opportunity to review the week's agenda and ask questions. There is a meeting of the MTARS team the afternoon before the joint exit meeting to discuss findings with regard to collaboration that are shared at the Joint Exit meeting.

Joint Exit Meeting

At the Joint Exit meeting, the Review Team presents to the ADD grantees its findings, including strengths, areas of compliance, and recommendations for program improvement. In this way, the grantees are alerted to what to expect in the final MTARS report. The following items may be discussed as findings:

- 1) Collaboration
- 2) Organizational Administration
- 3) Council/Board/Consumer Advisory Committee Membership
- 4) Program Administration
- 5) Evaluation and Reporting
- 6) Designated State Agency
- 7) Compliance Issues
- 8) Potential Areas for Technical Assistance
- 9) Innovative Practices
- 10) Fiscal Review Findings

Tab O has an outline for reporting out the MTARS results at the Exit Meeting.

Public Forum

A cross-program public forum is scheduled for the first day of the site visit. This provides an important opportunity to collect comments from the public about Council, P & A and UCEDD(s). Representatives from the Council, P&A, and UCEDD(s) are invited to attend the public forum. The On-site Coordinator introduces the forum. Review Team members listen to all participants but do not respond to comments or questions except for purposes of clarification. Members of the Review Team may talk by phone or meet briefly during the site visit with individuals who wish to speak with them privately.

The grantees ensure that there is a notetaker to record participant's remarks. The grantees also make arrangements for a timekeeper at each site who has the responsibility of ensuring that participants keep their remarks to 3 minutes. It is recommended that grantees have people sign up in advance of the public forum and that time be set aside for those who will be calling in to share their remarks. See Tab P for a Public Forum checklist.

It is absolutely essential that grantees ensure the public forum sites are accessible to people with disabilities. The grantees should visit the public forum site and assess it for accessibility. The grantees should also ensure that interpreters are available in case they are needed.

Interviews

Interviews are a vital part of the information-gathering process and are important in verifying the accuracy of the written material provided by a grantee. The Review Team may interview:

- individuals with developmental disabilities
- families
- grantee officials
- board members
- grantee staff
- State and local officials
- service providers
- university officials and students
- sub-grantees
- Consumer Advisory Committee members

It is suggested that the team interview, at a minimum, the following individuals or groups:

- Council: Chairperson, Executive Director, Council members, financial officer, and other key staff, contractors, grantees
- Designated State Agency: Head or other representative, financial officer and other staff
- P&A: Board/Advisory Council President and members, Executive Director, accountant/bookkeeper and other key P&A staff

- University Center(s): Director, faculty, staff, Dean, Provost/University President, trainees, Consumer Advisory Committee members, and community collaborators
- Consumers: Individuals and families benefiting from grantee activities
- Governor Liaisons (Council and P&A)

Although interviews are scheduled prior to the site visit, Review Team members may meet with others as time permits.

The Interview Process

Before beginning the interviews, the Program Lead discusses the interview process with team members and alerts them to any specific issues that require attention. The MTARS team determines who will lead the interview process. Each interview should be time-limited to accommodate the schedule of site visit activities. Program Team members should keep the interview moving smoothly from topic to topic so that vital questions have been addressed before the interview ends.

MTARS team members should put interviewees at ease by introducing themselves, and providing information about the purpose of MTARS. Interviewees should be advised that site visit findings are based only in part on interviews and that the Federal Government and the Review Team will protect the confidentiality of those who are interviewed.

Interview Questions

Interview questions allow the team to collect information on many topics including:

- mission and purpose
- planning priorities and goals
- program evaluation and monitoring
- outcomes and progress on goals
- project implementation
- outreach
- consumer representation
- program administration
- policies and procedures
- staff hiring and supervision
- training
- recordkeeping and reporting

See Tab Q for interview tips and for sample interview questions that may be asked of program representatives doing the on-site review.

P&A Case Record Review

One method used to assess the level and quality of services provided by the State protection and advocacy grantee and to check whether individuals with developmental disabilities are being served is to review actual case records. A Case File Review Protocol for MTARS appears in Tab D.4 for this purpose.

Regulations at 45 CFR Part 92(e) permit ADD reviewers to have access to P&A client and case eligibility records for purposes of monitoring system compliance pursuant to Section 104(b) of the Act. ADD respects client confidentiality and thus does not require that identifying information such as name, address, and social security number be disclosed. There are several options for making the information available to MTARS reviewers and guaranteeing confidentiality. For example, the file can be given to the reviewer with identifying information covered. Prior to the site visit, the P&A Program Lead contacts the Executive Director to determine how case files be reviewed.

Note-taking

In order to summarize what they learn during the site visit and to record sufficient detail to support their findings and recommendations, Review Team members should take thorough notes. Tab R includes note-taking tips that Review Team members will find helpful for recording impressions of their meetings, interviews, and document reviews. To ensure accuracy, notes should be taken when information is fresh in Review Team members' minds.

SECTION 7

Post-Site Visit Activities

Development of the Final Report

After each MTARS site visit, the MTARS team prepares a consolidated written report covering all aspects of the review. The report outlines the purpose of the review, describes the procedures followed, information about the State, and findings regarding Network collaboration. In addition, the report includes sections that summarize findings from the review of each program. The format for this part of the report is based on the self-assessment checklists for each program and includes the following categories:

- ✓ Organizational Administration
- ✓ Council/Board/Consumer Advisory Committee Membership
- ✓ Program Administration
- ✓ Designated State Agency
- ✓ Evaluation and Reports
- ✓ Compliance
- ✓ Recommendations
- ✓ Innovative Approaches

A sample report format appears in Tab S.

Program Team leads develop draft reports for their respective program. The MTARS Team Coordinator develops the parts of the report that address Network collaboration and other relevant information such as State demographics.

Process and Timeframes for Developing the Final Report

Developing and finalizing the final report should be accomplished within five months after the review. Certain parts of the report (e.g., those pertaining to specific grant programs) may require more time to finalize pending resolution of issues. The table below outlines the general times for completing the final report, however, it is understood that other work priorities may affect the completion of the report.

Report Distribution

The final report is issued by the ADD Commissioner. The MTARS report is distributed to the following:

- Council Executive Director
- Council Chairperson
- P&A Executive Director
- P&A Board Chairperson
- UCEDD Director
- University administration
- Review Team members
- Governor's Liaison(s)

See Tab T for a sample cover letter for the MTARS report.

Response to MTARS Report

The MTARS report will identify strengths and innovative practices, and recommendations to strengthen particular aspects of the program. The report may identify compliance issues if the team has determined that the grantee has not complied with the requirements in the DD Act.

Each grantee should submit a response to the ADD Commissioner addressing the findings in the report. The response should describe a corrective action plan if there were any compliance issues, how recommendations listed in the report will be addressed, and requests for technical assistance if needed. If the report includes recommendations on collaboration, ADD expects the network to develop together a joint action plan.

The response should be submitted within 60 days of the MTARS report sent by the Commissioner. Federal officials may provide assistance in the development of action plans and periodically will review the status of action taken by the program to resolve deficiencies.

Content of the Corrective Action Plan

If a program is found to be out of compliance with the DD Act, they must submit to ADD within 60 days a corrective action plan. The format of the corrective action plan may vary, but the plan must include the following:

- ✓ Each factor associated with compliance where improvement is needed.

- ✓ A plan or strategy to bring each factor into compliance, including action steps, timeframes for action steps and responsible staff.
- ✓ Measurable benchmarks of progress to indicate that compliance has been achieved by the State DD program.
- ✓ Description of how progress on the plan will be evaluated and reported to the Central and Regional Offices.

If the amount of progress to be achieved through the Corrective Action Plan appears to be insufficient, ADD will negotiate with the grantee to identify steps that sufficiently move the grantee towards the expected type or level of progress. When determining the amount of progress to be achieved, consideration should be given to current or prior efforts to improve performance.

Timeframes for Submitting the Corrective Action Plan

A grantee required to prepare a corrective action plan must submit its plan to the Commissioner for approval within 60 calendar days of receiving the final MTARS report that identifies elements of noncompliance and need for improvement. The Central Office will review the action plan and notify the grantee in writing of approval or disapproval within 30 days. If ADD determines that revisions to the corrective action plan are needed, the grantee must develop and submit the revisions to the Commissioner within 30 calendar days of receiving written notice that the action plan was not approved.

Timeframes for Implementing the Corrective Action Plan

It is expected that the time period for completing the corrective action plan will not exceed 1 year. Not all components of the plan will require a full year to implement, and this timeframe is provided as an outside limit for those elements of the corrective action plan requiring more extensive planning and action steps.

Evaluating the Implementation of the Corrective Action Plan

ADD central office evaluates the grantee's compliance with the terms and conditions of its approved corrective action plan, including the achievement of the benchmarks included in the plan.

The grantee must provide quarterly written progress reports to ADD staff. The quarterly progress reports must include sufficient detail to describe the progress made during the reporting period and must indicate whether specific timeframes in the corrective action plan are not being met.

Tab C.3 - Council Best or Innovative Practices Checklist

Instructions: The elements below are criteria to use to identify a best or innovative practice. Although a practice does not need to excel in every one of the elements, it must be noticeably superior to what is regarded as common practice among grantees to qualify as a best or innovative practice. Reviewers should rely on information provided by the grantee and will need to use their personal judgment when determining if a practice does qualify as a best practice. A best practice may be a research or evaluation project, policy analysis, data assessment, outreach initiative or awareness effort. It may provide direct service or supported opportunity to people with developmental disability, indirect support to family and community care givers or interdisciplinary training for students, fellows, professionals and policymakers. It may involve leadership development, community work or clinical practice. While best practices are diverse in their workings, they share these common characteristics:

ELEMENT #1: It reaches the population of focus

Grantee should explain how the practice reaches the population of focus and improves the lives of people with developmental disability, who are people with severe and multiple disabilities, without regard to disability label.

ELEMENT #2: It is an effort characterized by quality

Grantee demonstrates how this practice rises above the routine and can be fairly characterized as an outstanding or significant achievement due to model or innovative methods which are reasonable in cost; supported by individuals, families, policymakers and professionals; easily taught; replicable and adaptable by others.

ELEMENT #3: Its impact is measurable

Grantee can quantify the impact on people with developmental disabilities, families, community care givers, students, fellow, professionals, direct services and policy makers. Grantee can quantify the result of the practice with respect to leadership development, community work, litigation, mediation or clinical practice. Grantee describes the impact in terms of increased services, new individual supports, additional access to enriching community opportunities, improved awareness, better compliance monitoring, new legal precedent or a trained workforce. Grantee demonstrates that impacts are sustainable.

ELEMENT #4: It addresses the aspirations of individuals

Grantee demonstrates how the practice supports individuals with developmental disabilities in exercising choice, self determination and control of resources and how the practice contributes to the ability of individuals with developmental disabilities to live in the community in full and unqualified integration and inclusion with non-disabled peers and associates. The practice may, for example, provide access to safe and appropriate child care, after school services, public transportation, recreation, leisure and social activities; but it will certainly do so in the most integrated setting. It is often a practice which provides an opportunity to contribute and participate in the community, develop new friendships and lead a meaningful and productive life.

ELEMENT # 5: It is respectful in its methods

Grantee demonstrates how the practice reflects a social service philosophy that uses the strengths, resources and capabilities of the individual, respects the individual's dignity and priorities. It and views the individual as the primary decision maker in the service delivery process. The design, focus and direction of such a practice are derived from the involvement of people with developmental disabilities and their families. They support access to generic services rather than isolation within services specific to disability. They are cultural competent and reflect the meaningful preferences of many different communities.

ELEMENT #6: It safeguards those it intends to benefit

A best practice is one which is free of risk, abuse, exploitation, neglect or violation of civil rights.

Use the checklists below to describe best or innovative practices by identifying 2 or 3 of the most significant accomplishments during the past five years (or since the last MTARS visit). In your description, discuss the steps that the Council took to achieve the significant accomplishment.

Tab D.3 - Protection & Advocacy Best or Innovative Practices Checklist

Instructions: The elements below are criteria to use to identify a best or innovative practice. Although a practice does not need to excel in every one of the elements, it must be noticeably superior to what is regarded as common practice among grantees to qualify as a best or innovative practice. Reviewers should rely on information provided by the grantee and will need to use their personal judgment when determining if a practice does qualify as a best practice. A best practice may be a research or evaluation project, policy analysis, data assessment, outreach initiative or awareness effort. It may provide direct service or supported opportunity to people with developmental disability, indirect support to family and community care givers or interdisciplinary training for students, fellows, professionals and policymakers. It may involve leadership development, community work or clinical practice. While best practices are diverse in their workings, they share these common characteristics:

ELEMENT #1: It reaches the population of focus

Grantee should explain how the practice reaches the population of focus and improves the lives of people with developmental disability, who are people with severe and multiple disabilities, without regard to disability label.

ELEMENT #2: It is an effort characterized by quality

Grantee demonstrates how this practice rises above the routine and can be fairly characterized as an outstanding or significant achievement due to model or innovative methods which are reasonable in cost; supported by individuals, families, policymakers and professionals; easily taught; replicable and adaptable by others.

ELEMENT #3: Its impact is measurable

Grantee can quantify the impact on people with developmental disabilities, families, community care givers, students, fellow, professionals, direct services and policy makers. Grantee can quantify the result of the practice with respect to leadership development, community work, litigation, mediation or clinical practice. Grantee describes the impact in terms of increased services, new individual supports, additional access to enriching community opportunities, improved awareness, better compliance monitoring, new legal precedent or a trained workforce. Grantee demonstrates that impacts are sustainable.

ELEMENT #4: It addresses the aspirations of individuals

Grantee demonstrates how the practice supports individuals with developmental disabilities in exercising choice, self determination and control of resources and how the practice contributes to the ability of individuals with developmental disabilities to live in the community in full and unqualified integration and inclusion with non-disabled peers and associates. The practice may, for example, provide access to safe and appropriate child care, after school services, public transportation, recreation, leisure and social activities; but it will certainly do so in the most integrated setting. It is often a practice which provides an opportunity to contribute and participate in the community, develop new friendships and lead a meaningful and productive life.

ELEMENT # 5: It is respectful in its methods

Grantee demonstrates how the practice reflects a social service philosophy that uses the strengths, resources and capabilities of the individual, respects the individual's dignity and priorities. It and views the individual as the primary decision maker in the service delivery process. The design, focus and direction of such a practice are derived from the involvement of people with developmental disabilities and their families. They support access to generic services rather than isolation within services specific to disability. They are cultural competent and reflect the meaningful preferences of many different communities.

ELEMENT #6: It safeguards those it intends to benefit

A best practice is one which is free of risk, abuse, exploitation, neglect or violation of civil rights.

Use the checklists below to describe best or innovative practices by identifying 2 or 3 of the most significant accomplishments during the past five years (or since the last MTARS visit). In your description, discuss the steps that the P&A took to achieve the significant accomplishment.

Tab D.4 - Protection & Advocacy System Case File Review

P&A Case File Review Protocol for MTARS

ADD conducts monitoring and technical assistance reviews of the DD network programs periodically depending on available resources. Review of a sampling of client case eligibility records is a required element of the P&A monitoring visit. The DD Act authorizes ADD to have access to these records¹, but precludes access to any personal identifying information². Further, the regulation explicitly states that P&As may obtain consent from all clients to have information related to client and case eligibility disclosed to ADD³.

Given this authority, and pursuant to the results of ADD's test of a streamlined protocol for accomplishing the onsite review of client and eligibility case files for the five 2005 monitoring reviews, ADD will continue to use the streamlined protocol.

The purpose of the case file review is to ascertain and certify that the clients meet the eligibility criteria for developmental disability and that the case handling procedures are timely, reasonable and complete from intake to formal closure.

ADD will use the attached questionnaire (developed by Lois Simpson, Executive Director, Louisiana P&A, 2004) to guide the "non-hands-on" case file review conducted jointly by the MTARS team and the Legal Director/managing attorney and/or other P&A staff who will handle the selected case files.

Case File Review Protocol

- In advance of the monitoring visit, the P&A will provide to the P&A MTARS Team Leader a list of up to 100 cases by case number and status (including open, closed, and designated information and referral, full representation, etc.), in which ADD funds are/were used during the period of the review.
- MTARS Team Leader will select at least 10 cases at random for review and notify the P&A Executive Director.
- The P&A Executive Director and the MTARS Team Leader will agree upon the date and time for the case file review, during which the Legal Director/managing attorney and/or other P&A staff who are knowledgeable about the selected cases will be available to participate in the review to answer questions and handle the case files. At no time will the MTARS team seek or have access to personal identifying information.

² See 42 U.S.C. §15044(c) and 45 C.F.R. §1385.9(e)(1) and §1385.9(e)(2).

³ See Id. 1385.9(e)(2)

- For the cases selected for review, the P&A will have the paper files on site at the location designated for the case file review and, for those parts of the file that are electronically maintained, P&A staff will be able to access the electronic records during the course of the MTARS review.
- P&As may also provide certain information to the MTARS review team by sharing copies of the “face page” or other documents from electronic or paper files with personal identifying information of clients redacted.
- During each case file review, the MTARS team will note whether the case file is in order (eligible, timely, reasonable and complete) and if not, will recommend corrective action.
- The P&A must certify that all client case files are stored under lock and key to be in compliance with the regulations implementing the DD Act⁴.

⁴ See 45 C.F.R. §1386.22 (e)

KEY ELEMENTS OF A CASE FILE REVIEW

- Is there evidence that the client meets the eligibility criteria for developmental disability?
- Does the issue in the case conform to one of the priorities set by the P&A?
- Is there a retainer agreement that clearly states what the P&A will do for the client?
- Is there evidence that action on the case began promptly and proceeded at a reasonable pace?
- Is there evidence that the client was kept informed about progress on the case?
- Is there evidence that sufficient research and document review was carried out in order to achieve the client's objective?
- Was the expected outcome of the case achieved for the client?
- If not, why not?
- Is there evidence that the client was notified when the case was formally closed?

RESOURCES FOR DETERMINING COMPLIANCE WITH CONSUMER ADVISORY COMMITTEE REQUIREMENTS

The DD Act requires that the Consumer Advisory Committee be comprised of a majority of members who are individuals with developmental disabilities and family members of individuals with developmental disabilities. Members in the minority are individuals representing different organizations, including the DD Council, State P&A, and a State self-advocacy group. When indicating compliance with this component of the DD Act, the UCEDD needs to document a distinction between individuals with developmental disabilities and family members serving on the Consumer Advisory Committee from the organizational representatives serving on the Committee. Individuals with developmental disabilities and family members cannot represent both an organization and individuals with developmental disabilities and family members. This is not to say that the UCEDD cannot have CAC members who work for disability-related organizations. Instead, it needs to be clear whether cannot A clear delineation in roles must be made between the majority and minority. Thus, when a UCEDD asks individuals with developmental disabilities and/or family members to serve on the Consumer Advisory Committee, they should communicate that they are there to represent primary and secondary consumers. In cases where such individuals work for self-advocacy and/or parent organizations, the UCEDD should clearly indicate to them that they are representing themselves as a consumer and they are not there to represent the organization. The chart below can be used to determine compliance with the DD Act. It is followed by a sample of a completed chart.

The DD Act requires that the Consumer Advisory Committee reflects the racial and ethnic diversity of the State. The MTARS team will use U.S. Census data to determine whether the Consumer Advisory Committee reflects the racial and ethnic diversity of the State. The UCEDD might want to follow the same procedures in preparation for the MTARS review. Below is an example of how the MTARS review team will use the State Census data to determine compliance with this part of the DD Act:

Tab E.3 - UCEDD Best or Innovative Practices Checklist

Instructions: The elements below are criteria to use to identify a best or innovative practice. Although a practice does not need to excel in every one of the elements, it must be noticeably superior to what is regarded as common practice among grantees to qualify as a best or innovative practice. Reviewers should rely on information provided by the grantee and will need to use their personal judgment when determining if a practice does qualify as a best practice. A best practice may be a research or evaluation project, policy analysis, data assessment, outreach initiative or awareness effort. It may provide direct service or supported opportunity to people with developmental disability, indirect support to family and community care givers or interdisciplinary training for students, fellows, professionals and policymakers. It may involve leadership development, community work or clinical practice. While best practices are diverse in their workings, they share these common characteristics:

ELEMENT #1: It reaches the population of focus

Grantee should explain how the practice reaches the population of focus and improves the lives of people with developmental disability, who are people with severe and multiple disabilities, without regard to disability label.

ELEMENT #2: It is an effort characterized by quality

Grantee demonstrates how this practice rises above the routine and can be fairly characterized as an outstanding or significant achievement due to model or innovative methods which are reasonable in cost; supported by individuals, families, policymakers and professionals; easily taught; replicable and adaptable by others.

ELEMENT #3: Its impact is measurable

Grantee can quantify the impact on people with developmental disabilities, families, community care givers, students, fellow, professionals, direct services and policy makers. Grantee can quantify the result of the practice with respect to leadership development, community work, litigation, mediation or clinical practice. Grantee describes the impact in terms of increased services, new individual supports, additional access to enriching community opportunities, improved awareness, better compliance monitoring, new legal precedent or a trained workforce. Grantee demonstrates that impacts are sustainable.

ELEMENT #4: It addresses the aspirations of individuals

Grantee demonstrates how the practice supports individuals with developmental disabilities in exercising choice, self determination and control of resources and how the practice contributes to the ability of individuals with developmental disabilities to live in the community in full and unqualified integration and inclusion with non-disabled peers and associates. The practice may, for example, provide access to safe and appropriate child care, after school services, public transportation, recreation, leisure and social activities; but it will certainly do so in the most integrated setting. It is often a practice which provides an opportunity to contribute and participate in the community, develop new friendships and lead a meaningful and productive life.

ELEMENT # 5: It is respectful in its methods

Grantee demonstrates how the practice reflects a social service philosophy that uses the strengths, resources and capabilities of the individual, respects the individual's dignity and priorities. It and views the individual as the primary decision maker in the service delivery process. The design, focus and direction of such a practice are derived from the involvement of people with developmental disabilities and their families. They support access to generic services rather than isolation within services specific to disability. They are cultural competent and reflect the meaningful preferences of many different communities.

ELEMENT #6: It safeguards those it intends to benefit

A best practice is one which is free of risk, abuse, exploitation, neglect or violation of civil rights.

Use the checklists below to describe best or innovative practices by identifying 2 or 3 of the most significant accomplishments during the past five years (or since the last MTARS visit). In your description, discuss the steps that the UCEDD took to achieve the significant accomplishment.

Tab F – Tips for Effective Team Work

One of the benefits of working in any team is the experience and perspective of different members. Individuals who come from different backgrounds and points of view will create a team that, when working well, responds to challenges with different ideas and solutions.

A team that is diverse in the experience and perspectives of its members will bring more ideas to discussions and thus solve problems more strategically.

Even individuals who have similar experience often have different perspectives on what the problem is, and thus may have different solutions. More collective knowledge and varied perspectives enable a group to identify more criteria than an individual working on the same problems. It is with that in mind that the MTARS team was developed.

There are many types of teams. Some teams function together over a long period of time, working for a long-term goal. Other teams are brought together to address a single issue or event. The latter is the case with the MTARS. Because individuals on the MTARS team may not know one another the review starts off with a team meeting. The first team meeting is important in that it allows the team members to meet one another, share their backgrounds, and ‘get on the same page.’ Individual team members have different responsibilities during the review. These responsibilities are assigned at the first team meeting. Knowing what is expected of them helps team members feel more comfortable.

Effective Teams

Know your responsibilities: Learn these by attending the team meeting, even if you have done a review before.

Be clear on expectations and timelines: The success of the entire team rests on the ability of each team member to do their job when it is necessary.

Ask questions and share information: Information that is shared benefits the team decision-making process. In other words, communicate!

Support one another: If another team member is struggling or not participating in the discussion, make room for their point of view. Ask questions! Everyone’s ideas are important to the problem-solving process.

Ask for help: Voicing your needs may put an issue on the table that others are struggling with.

Tab R – Interview Tips

The most important component of interviewing is developing a positive relationship with the speaker. This is accomplished by listening to what the speaker is saying.

Give the speaker your undivided attention:

- Maintain eye contact
- Keep a positive attitude
- Don't lean back in the chair
- Don't fidget
- Don't prop head up with hands
- Don't chew on a pencil or obviously chew gum
- Don't eat (if necessary, ask permission first)

Participate through non-verbal feedback:

- Nod the head
- Lean forward
- Make appropriate gestures
- Smile

Participate through verbal feedback:

- Use verbal affirmation (yes, I understand, really, wow)
- Ask questions that allow the speaker to elaborate
- Clarify what was heard (so what you are saying is..., I heard you say...)
- Summarize what was heard (so you feel that...)

Be professional:

- Tolerate bad habits or technique of the speaker
- Judge the message and content, not the personal traits of the speaker
- Avoid generalizations (watch your perspective!)
- Control your own emotions
- Be objective
- Be sensitive to differences
- Ask if the speaker is comfortable
- Hold off judgment of the message until all the information has been presented

In advance of the interviews, determine if any of the speakers require accommodations:

- If the speaker uses sign, make sure there is an interpreter
- If the person uses a chair, make sure there is room at the table
- If the person is visually challenged, make sure that any written materials you might be using are available in alternative format

- Allow the speaker to bring a companion
- Allow extra time for a speaker with a speech impairment so you aren't rushing them through their interview.

In advance of the interviews, determine if English is a second language and if an interpreter is required:

- Ask the interpreter for guidance in the cultural norms of the speaker related to interview techniques.
- Check with interpreter about understanding of key concepts that may not have direct translation such as advocacy

Explain the time frame at the beginning of the interview:

- Make sure the speaker knows that time is limited
- Provide the speaker at least five minutes notice before ending the interview. This will allow the speaker an opportunity to summarize their message or make what is left of their points

Ask open-ended questions:

- Don't be afraid of silence; allow the speaker to think or gather their thoughts. However, don't be afraid to prompt the speaker if they are having trouble.

The closing of the interview is as important as the opening. Interviews should not come to an abrupt end. Never give the impression that there is no further interest in the interviewee once you have what you want. Thank the person for their time and work. Do not stop listening until the person leaves, because sometimes a person will relax after the interview and may provide additional information.

Explain to the interviewee what they can expect to happen next in the review process. Tell the person how long it will take to hear from the Team regarding their findings, and how they can reach you if they wish to provide more information. In your notes, write down any promise you make to the person, and be sure to follow through on these commitments. Reliability will increase trust and the Review Team's credibility.

Tab S – Note-Taking Tips

The following are tips to keep in mind when interviewing staff, listening to presentations, performing document reviews, conducting on-site team meetings, preparing for exit meetings and when recording highlights to assist with the MTARS report writing.

Keep the following in mind:

- Notes should be prepared when memories are fresh
- Information should be short and sweet (perhaps using a bullet format), but use as much space as needed to provide background information and the facts
- Summarize facts, separate the good from the bad,
- Note what really knocked your socks off,
- Note, how many goals, described by area of emphasis and type, that were reviewed. Where do things stand on the goals reviewed (on target, brand new, off track)? Did the grantee have information that can be used in the report to Congress?
- What technical assistance needs were raised, emerged or were addressed?
- What best practices were brought to your attention? Do we need more details before they can be disseminated?
- What if anything is the grantee going to do or send us that will help us in writing the report?
- What follow-up did grantee promise?
- What did we promise to do before we issue the report?

Organize the information using the following outline of key facts (or using the suggested report outline):

- I. Significant Highlights
- II. Findings on Collaboration
- III. Findings on Compliance and Organizational Structure
- IV. Findings on Accountability and Progress on Goals and Outcomes
- V. Technical Assistance Needs
- VI. Best Practices
- VII. Follow-up by Grantee Expected before the Report is Issued
- VIII. Follow-up by ADD Expected Before the Report is Issued

Notes should focus on getting answers to gaps and questions on the checklists and other monitoring tools in Exhibits E-J, on areas of strength and weakness and the impact of grantee's efforts on individuals with developmental disabilities. The checklists and monitoring tools at Exhibits E-J are designed for note-taking. If there is no checklist or monitoring tool designed for a specific meeting, interview or document review, reviewers can use the optional note-taking form at Exhibit D.6. When reviewing case records, reviewers may want to use the client record review checklist at Exhibit D.7.

Dear Colleagues:

We are pleased to provide you with the enclosed Monitoring and Technical Assistance Review System (MTARS) Report conducted for the California Developmental Disabilities Network on May 22 – 26, 2006. We appreciated your cooperation with all aspects of the review.

The report outlines the approaches and contributions of the Protection and Advocacy Inc. (PAI), the Tarjan Center – a University Center of Excellence in Developmental Disabilities and the Children's Hospital Los Angeles - a University Center for Excellence in Developmental Disabilities. These programs support and promote self-determination, independence, productivity, integration, and inclusion of persons with developmental disabilities in all facets of community life through culturally competent programs authorized under the Developmental Disabilities Assistance and Bill of Rights Act of 2000 (DD Act, PL 106-402). As a result of complex findings during the review of the California Council on Developmental Disabilities, there is a delay in the release of approaches and contributions of that DD Network partner. You will be given a copy of the full report upon its release. The three main parts of the report are:

I. Purpose and Scope

II. California Developmental Disabilities Network Findings and Recommendations

III. Individual Grantee Findings and Recommendations

Given the strong foundation of collaboration, the MTARS team recommends that the state DD Network enhance their current level of collaboration to become more visible to external entities. Please refer to the report for specific strategies.

As a result of the review, the Administration on Developmental Disabilities (ADD) found issues regarding compliance with the DD Act. Within sixty (60) days of receipt of this letter, please prepare a corrective action plan addressing how the issues will be addressed. The plan should include specific actions and projected dates for completion. In addition, please provide a response within 60 days to the other observations and recommendations contained in the report. Please send the corrective action plan and comments to:

If you have any questions or need additional information, please contact Jennifer Johnson at 202-690-5982.

Again, we appreciate your cooperation with the review process and look forward to working with you on behalf of individuals with developmental disabilities in the state of California.
